*Thirty-eight inscriptions (or parts of inscriptions) from gravestones in this cemetery having been communicated, in condensed form, by Louis Marinus Dewey, Esq., of Westfield, Mass. Three or four of these thirty-eight inscriptions were not included among those communicated by Mr. Barbour, the stones on which they were inscribed having probably disappeared between 1906 and 1914. In order to make the copy of inscriptions in this cemetery complete down to 1914, the inscriptions communicated by Mr. Dewey (about 7½% of the total number down to 1914) have been reprinted in this article. Each of these inscriptions is indicated by the letter D. in brackets, thus: [D.], placed at the end of the inscription. Attention is called in footnotes to any important differences in reading between the copy communicated by Mr. Dewey and that communicated by Mr. Barbour.—EDITORS.

*She was given incorrectly as daughter of Dea. Levi Ward and widow of Dea. David Hubbard, as if her surname at death was Hubbard. Dea. David Hubbard, however was her first husband. Dea. Levi Ward, born at Killingworth, Conn., in 1743, married (1) at East Guilford, Conn., in 1765, Mary Meigs, who was the mother of his three children and died in 1806. In 1807 Deacon Ward, with his three married children and their families, migrated to western New York, then a wilderness, and settled at Bergen. In July 1811, on one of his yearly trips to Connecticut, he married (2) Mrs. Jemima Hubbard of Glastonbury. He died at Bergen Feb. 27, 1833, and is buried there in the Stone Church Graveyard. His widow died Dec. 27, 1838, and is buried at Glastonbury with her first husband. This information has been supplied by Miss Ethel C. Waters of Rochester, N. Y., a great-great-granddaughter of Deacon Ward.—Editors.
